

Neighborhood Council to Recognize Schools for Outstanding Educational Programs

Reinforcing the importance of quality education and cognizant of the uphill battle many area schools have in implementing innovative programming, the Northridge East Neighborhood Council has approved funds that will be used to recognize students, teachers, administrators, and parents who participate in outstanding educational programs in our local schools.

During 2011, NENC will recognize 12 schools within its boundaries for innovative academic programming with Darby Elementary School being the first school to receive this recognition, according to NENC Education Committee Chair Nestor Fantini. A certificate acknowledging the remarkable efforts of Principal Virginia Ghoniem and PTA President Karen Green will be presented at NENC's general meeting, Wednesday, January 19, 2011, 7:00 p.m. in the Northridge Academy High School's Auditorium.

Education Committee Chair Fantini commented: "There are many remarkable things happening in our local schools. It is important to identify them and recognize the achievement of students, the dedication of teachers, the leadership of administrators and the contribution of concerned parents. By doing so, we will ensure that these programs serve as models for other schools and the community as a whole."

NENC is dedicated to making the community of Northridge East a better place to live, work, play and learn. For more information about NENC visit our website at www.nenc-la.org or e-mail us at info@nenc-la.org or contact Nestor at n.fantini@nenc-la.org.
